Jagger,

I can't express into words how much my time with you has meant to me. You have gotten me through many rough times. Just seeing that beautiful little face of yours could always brighten my day. I would always do anything in my power to make sure you and your brother had everything you needed. I'm so sorry that back in December you developed a respiratory infection and even with antibiotics we've been dealing with respiratory problems ever since. I gave you my word that no matter how many trips to the doctors that we had to go to, we were gonna do it, and that's exactly what we did. We fought this together until the end my precious baby boy. The only peace I have is knowing that you are no longer having to have breathing treatments. It is definitely not the same at home anymore I know your brother Sere misses you, Daddy definitely misses his lil' buddy saying hi to him when he comes home from work and letting him know when it's 9 o'clock and time for ice cream, but no one misses you as much as mommy misses her little Man~Man cuz remember what mommy always told you....know one will ever love you as much as I do!! I love you to the moon and back always and forever until we meet again my precious angel
